The Clubs the Pros Play

Tommy Armour Tourneys are the clubs built by golf professionals—incorporating their own suggested playing features—as taken from specifications on their "personal use" clubs.

Once Tourneys were developed, many professionals and amateur Tourney users enjoyed the thrill of tournament winnings, from intra-club championships, city championships, state events on up to major—sectional and national—championships. Tourneys are the choice of today's hopeful championship contenders and tomorrow's champions.

EXCLUSIVE "PRO SUGGESTED" FEATURES

ON TOURNEY IRONS

1. Blades are heavier and meatier.
2. Hickory Neutralizer in the tip of the shaft is to strengthen and stiffen the lower part of the shaft.
3. Blades are slightly offset to aid in alignment.
4. Blades are slightly fanned to increase confidence.
5. Faces are sand-blasted.
6. Faces are line scored in accordance with the U.S.G.A. 1942 ruling.
7. Smaller diametered hosels are of lighter weight.
8. Distinctive silver sheathing is of lighter weight so that the live steel shaft action will not be retarded.
9. Additional weight has been placed in the heads for more concentrated power, because of smaller hosels, lighter sheathing, etc.
10. Selection of shafts in different weights and stiffness are available to every class of golfer.

ON TOURNEY WOODS

1. Models—"T" models are round type, compact heads. "H" models are extra-deep, powerful heads. "D" models are "easy-to-play" pear shaped heads.
2. Oil hardening process more thoroughly seals the pores of the selected persimmon heads.
3. Selection of shafts as to weight and stiffness are available to take care of the various speeds of swing.

ON BOTH IRONS AND WOODS

1. Cork listing is used on the grips not only because it is resilient and light, but it throws more weight into the head.
2. Newly designed, hand tooled edges on the fine calfskin grips prevent scuffing and loosening, and they provide the golfer with a firmer gripping surface.

TMS MODEL

Stiffest

Recording No. 3852MS

Professionals and fine amateurs have selected the TMS model, with its exclusive MacGregor-patterned True Temper shaft, because the shaft is stiff but not bulky. It is designed for the crisp, smashing iron play of the finer golfers who have strong hands and strong forearm action.

The blades are extremely powerful. The swing weights range from C9 to D2.

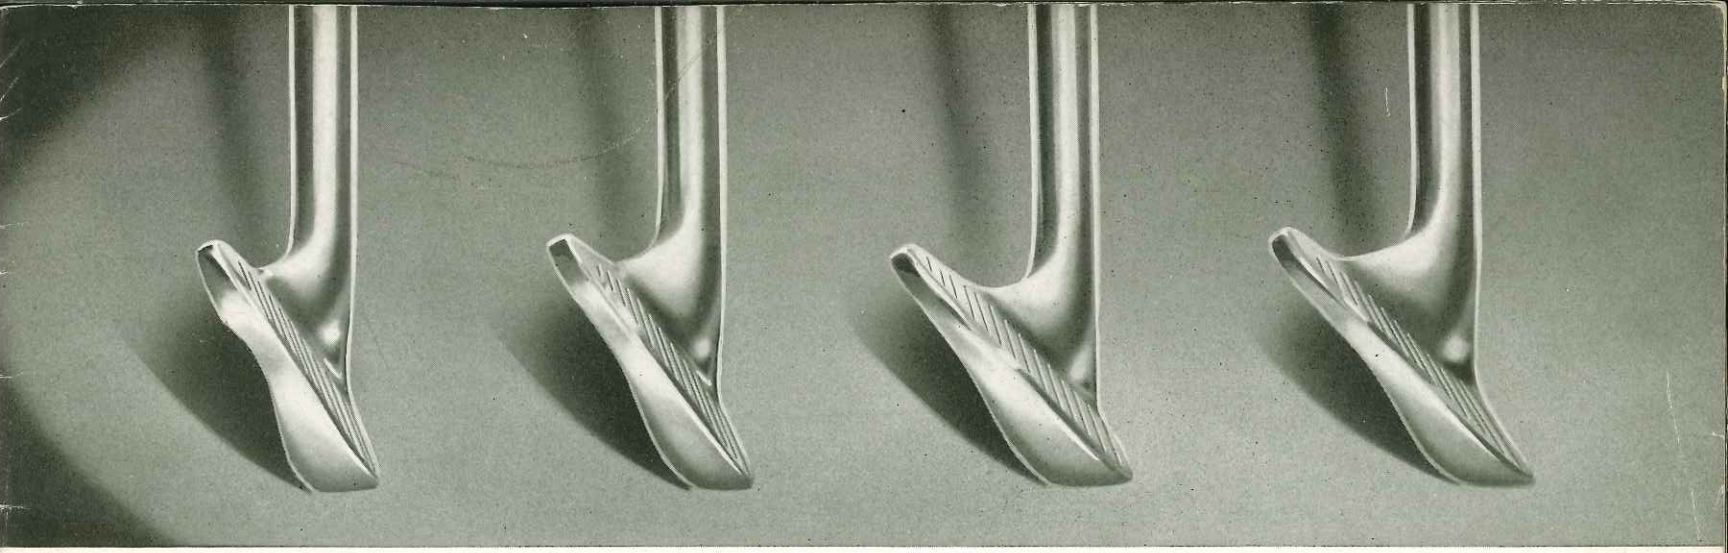
TIM MODEL

Medium

Recording No. 85324

Club members and fine golfers obtain better results with the TIM mid-stiff model True Temper shaft, because it has been designed to be exactly midway between the TMS which is for hard hitters, and the TLM, suitable for seniors, and thus fits the speed of swing for the large majority.

The blades are extremely powerful. The swing weights range from C9 to D2.



TLM MODEL

Senior

Recording No. 85318

The senior or the stylist with a perfected swing will find this specially designed True Temper shaft not only easy to control but most suited to his game. This lighter weight shaft has more flex and therefore extreme distance is gotten with less effort and wrist fatigue.

The blades are slightly lighter, and the swing weights range from C6 to C9.

TSS MODEL

Pro only Hy Action

Recording No. 3852

The amateur golfer or the professional with a swing of average speed will get longer and lower trajectory on his long irons with this "Pro only" Hy Action, True Temper shaft which puts feel of the shot into upper portions of shaft.

Again this shaft is the most generally used of all models. Standard powerful Tourney blades used. The swing weight ranges from C9 to D2.

TMH MODEL

Pro only Heddon

Recording No. 85326

The new "Heddon" "Tear Drop" streamlined shaft, designed for the strong hitter, puts power and more "feel" into the heads. This extremely long and powerful shaft is a "Pro only" design and is most suitable for players in the low handicap bracket.

Standard powerful blades are used throughout the set. The swing weights range from C9 to D2.

Tommy Armour

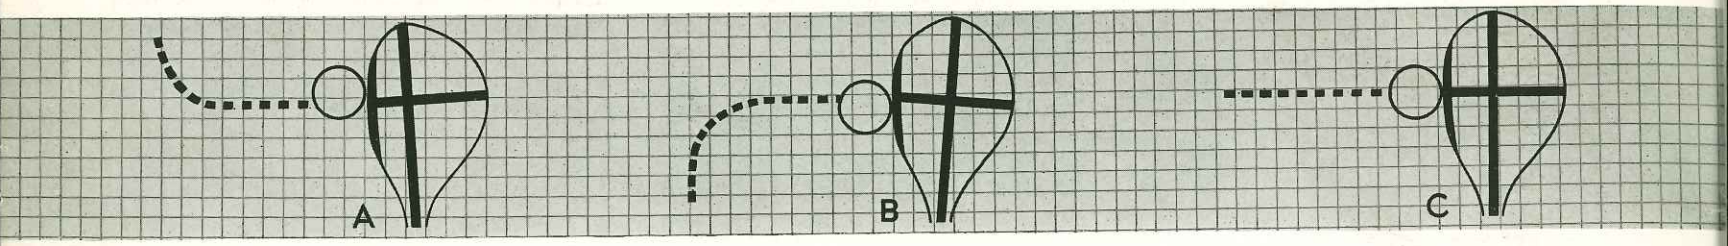
TOURNEY WOODS ARE THE CLUBS THE "PROS PLAY" BECAUSE



When addressing the ball, your eye automatically lines up the club-head with the desired direction of flight. You consider the position of the toe, the face, and the entire shape of the wood-head. Now, if the toe isn't in line with your club-shaft watch how you'll unconsciously try to turn it, in or out, depending upon the intended direction.

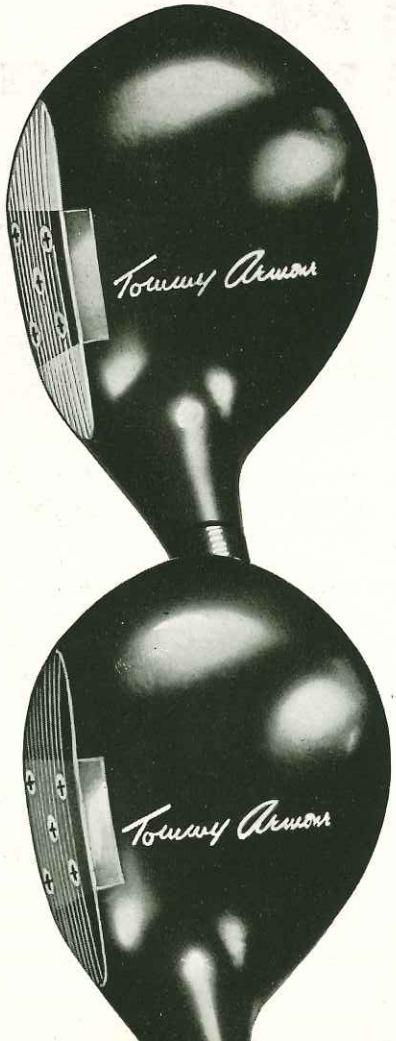
If the toe is misplaced, as in above A, by being too far forward, you unconsciously try to open the face—resulting in a badly sliced drive.

If the toe is too far back, as in above B, you unconsciously try to close the face—resulting in a fast breaking, ducking, hooked drive.

If the toe is correctly aligned to the shaft, as in above C—of a Tourney Wood, you hit straight through without any unconscious adjustments.

TOURNEY WOODS • TRUE-SOLED

Tommy Armour Tourney Woods are True-Soled, as illustrated. The clubhead sets very squarely up to the ball at address. The heel does not fall away, causing you to unconsciously turn your clubhead in or to feel that you must hit downwardly, for when you use Tourneys you will hit straight through, relying upon the superb craftsmenship of the head to get the shot away — depending solely upon the loft and perfect alignment of the face to get the proper elevation and desired direction.



TOURNEY "H" MODELS

The extra deep-faced, oil hardened HOGAN model woods are finished in hand-polished Mahogany. Red vulcanized fibre insert with face of natural finish.

HWS Model

Recording No. 4393

Naturally, professionals who like to use a deep-faced club model prefer a stiff shaft which will put the swinger's full power into the clubhead. The shaft is stiff but not bulky.

The swing weights range from C9 to D4. Standard stock size: weight 13¼ ounces; length 43 inches.

HH Model

Recording No. 4378

Another version of a stiff shaft is this "pro only" "Tear Drop" "Heddon," which was designed primarily for the strong hitters, and puts all the power and feel into the clubhead.

The swing weights range from C9 to D4. Standard stock size: weight 13¼ ounces; length 43 inches.

The swing weight ranges from C9 to D4. Standard stock size: weight 13¼ ounces; length 43 inches.

DLM Model

Recording No. 4377

The Senior or Stylist will find this True Temper shaft especially adaptable to his game, because it is slightly lighter in weight and has a little more feel. Greater accuracy and distance are attained with little effort, and saving wrist fatigue.

either of these two mighty and efficient Jumbo Driver models — available in choice of two shafts and weights.

This extremely deep-faced driver is fully one-half inch deeper than the usual deep-faced clubs. It has a 13 degree brassie loft, which gets the proper trajectory on such a deep-faced club. The Jumbo was originally designed as a teaching model, but it was instantly adopted by many fine players, because it helped secure extra yardage and accuracy. The oil hardened head is finished in beautiful hand polished ebony and has a red vulcanized fibre insert.

BJD Model

The very strong golfer with powerful hands and forearms can easily handle this Jumbo club with the stiff "T.T.W." shaft, weighing 13¾ ounces.

TOURNEY
HY COMPRESSION GOLF BALLS
USED BY CHAMPIONS

The extremely high tension winding of the Tourney Hy Compression Ball was designed originally for the MacGregor Pro Advisory Staff for use in major tournament play. Within a short while the "stay-on-the-job" pros demanded the same ball for their daily play. Now amateurs and professionals, the country over, are using it and getting tremendous distances.

Last season MacGregor sponsored 102 driving contests for club members only to see if the Tourney ball was suitable for their game. The contests were held nationally, under varying climatic conditions. Each member was given the opportunity to hit three Hy Compression Tourney Balls with his own clubs. The results were terrific.

Tommy Armour SHIRT—PRO DESIGNED

Tommy Armour says: "This is absolutely the last word in practical golf shirts for the true golfer. It is cool on warm days because it quickly absorbs perspiration. It is warm on cool days because the wool holds the body warmth. It never binds at shoulders or arms because of its elastic weave. It never gets soggy because the fine grade of wool dries quickly. It's sporting and immediately classes the wearer as an experienced golfer."
